

Abstract

5 An operation of controlling the interactions which are offered by a user interface of a device on the basis of service features which are available for the device,

- indicators being determined by the combination of service features,
- 10 - each interaction being assigned an indicator and a limiting value,
- the interaction being offered if the indicator complies with the limiting value.